

CORAL GROUP

About Statement

Coral Group is a leading venture capital firm focused on technology companies, with a particular interest in the communications, software, enterprise computing and media sectors. Coral partners with emerging companies in markets experiencing technology-driven transitions, which often result in new business modalities and new market participants. Since 1990, the Coral team has invested in over 100 companies in the United States, Israel and Europe contributing to their growth through direct involvement with management and boards of directors using Coral's deep operational experience and broad international relationships.

By working closely with management to create value, Coral has helped a number of companies achieve substantial success over the last two decades, including Macromedia (IPO and then acquired by Adobe), Magnet Communications (acquired by Digital Insight), Vizrt (IPO), Advanced Fibre Communications (IPO and then acquired by Tellabs), Optical Solutions (acquired by Calix) and Digital Generation Systems (IPO).
